

TO THE MOST HIGH AND MIGHTIE

Prince, IAMES by the grace of God King of Great Britaine, France and Ireland, Defender of the Faith, &c.

THE TRANSLATORS OF THE BIBLE,

wish Grace, Mercie, and Peace, through IESVS CHRIST our LORD.

Reat and manifold were the blessings (most dread Soueraigne) which Almighty God, the Father of all Mercies, bestowed vpon vs the people of England, when first he sent your Maiesties Royall person to rule and raigne ouer us. For whereas it was the expectation of many, who wished not well vnto our Sion, that vpon the setting of that bright Occidentall Starre Queene Elizabeth of most happy memory, some thicke and palpable cloudes of darkenesse would so have overshadowed this land, that men should have bene in doubt which way they were to walke, and that it should hardly be knowen, who was to direct the vosetled State: the appearance of your MAIESTIE, as of the Sunne in his strength, instantly dispelled those supposed and surmised mists, and gave vnto all that were well affected, exceeding cause of comfort; especially when we beheld the government established in your HIGHNESSE, and your hopefull Seed, by an vndoubted Title, and this also accompanied with Peace and tranquillitie, at home and abroad.

But amongst all our loyes, there was no one that more filled our hearts, then the blessed continuance of the Preaching of Gods sacred word amongst vs, which is that inestimable treasure, which excelleth all the riches of the earth, because the fruit thereof extende thit selfe, not onely to the time spent in this transitory world, but directeth and disposeth men vnto that Eternall happinesse which is aboue in Heauen.

Then, not to suffer this to fall to the ground, but rather to take it vp, and to continue it in that state, wherein the famous predecessour of your HIGH-NESSE did leave it; Nay, to goe forward with the confidence and resolution of a man in maintaining the trueth of CHRIST, and propagating it farre and neere, is that which hath so bound and firmely knit the hearts of all your MAIESTIES loyall and Religious people vnto you, that your very Name is precious among them, their eye doeth behold you with comfort, and they blesse you in their hearts, as that sanctified person, who vnder God, is the immediate authour of their true happinesse. And this their contentment doeth not diminish or decay, but every day increaseth and taketh strength, when they observe that the zeale of your Maiestie towards the house of God, doth not slacke or goe backward, but is more and more kindled, manifesting it selfe abroad in the furthest parts of Christendome, by writing in defence of the Trueth, (which hath given such a blow vnto that man of Sinne, as will not be healed) and euery day at home, by Religious and learned discourse, by frequenting the house of God, by hearing the word preached, by cherishing the teachers therof, by caring for the Church as a most tender and louing nourcing Father.

There are infinite arguments of this right Christian and Religious affection in your MAIESTIE: but none is more forcible to declare it to others, then the vehement and perpetuated desire of the accomplishing and publishing of this Worke, which now with all humilitie we present vnto your MAIESTIE. For when your Highnesse had once out of deepe judgment apprehended, how convenient it was, That out of the Originall sacred tongues, together with comparing of the labours, both in our owne and other forreigne Languages, of many worthy men who went before vs, there should be one more exact Translation of the holy Scriptures into the English tongue; your MAIESTIE did neuer desist, to vrge and to excite those to whom it was commended, that the worke might be hastened, and that the businesse might be expedited in so decent a maner, as a matter of such importance might justly require.

And now at last, by the Mercy of GoD, and the continuance of our Labours, it being brought vnto such a conclusion, as that we have great hope that the Church of England shall reape good fruit thereby; we hold it our duety to offer it to your MAIESTIE, not onely as to our King and Soueraigne, but as to the principall moouer and Author of the Worke. Humbly crauing of your most Sacred Maiestie, that since things of this quality haue euer bene subject to the censures of ill meaning and discontented persons, it may receive approbation and Patronage from so learned and judicious a Prince as your Highnesse is, whose allowance and acceptance of our Labours, shall more honour and incourage vs, then all the calumniations and hard interpretations of other men shall dismay vs. So that, if on the one side we shall be traduced by Popish persons at home or abroad, who therefore will maligne vs, because we are poore Instruments to make Gods holy Trueth to be yet more and more knowen vnto the people, whom they desire still to keepe in ignorance and darknesse : or if on the other side, we shall be maligned by selfe-conceited brethren, who runner their owne wayes, and give liking vnto nothing but what is framed by themselues, and hammered on their Anuile; we may rest secure, supported within by the trueth and innocencie of a good conscience, having walked the wayes of simplicitie and integritie, as before the Lord; And sustained without, by the powerfull Protection of your Maiesties grace and fauour, which will euer giue countenance to honest and Christian endeuours, against bitter censures, and vncharitable imputations.

The LORD of Heauen and earth blesse your Maiestie with many and happy dayes, that as his Heanenly hand hath enriched your Highnesse with many singular, and extraordinary Graces; so you may be the wonder of the world in this later age, for happinesse and true felicitie, to the honour of that Great Gop, and the good of his Church, through IESVS CHRIST

Eale to promote the common good, whether it be by deuising any thing our selnes, or reuising that which hath bene laboured by o- things have thers, descrueth certainly much respect and esteeme, but yet findeth been countries but cold insertainment in the world. It is welcommed with suspicion in stead of love, and with emulation in stead of thankes; and if there be any hole left for cavill to enter, f and cavill, if it doe not finde a hole, will make one) it is sure to bee misconstrued, and in danger to be condemned. This will easily be granted by as many as know story, or have any experience. For, was there ever any thing projected, that sauoured any way of newnesse or renewing, but the same some Lawes, learning and eloquence, Synods, and Church-maintenance, (that we speake of no more things of this kinde) should be as safe as a Sanctuary, and || out of shot, as they say, that no man would lift up the heele, no, nor dogge moone his tongue against the motioners of them. For by the first, we are distinguished from bruit-beasts led with sensualitie: By the second, we are bridled and restrained from outragious behaniour, and from doing of injuries, whether by fraud or by violence: By the third, we are enabled to informe and reforme others, by the light and feeling that we have attained vato our selues : Briefly, by the fourth being brought together to a parle face to face, we sooner compose out differences then by writings, which are endlesse: And lastly, that the Church be sufficiently provided for, is so agreeable to good reason and conscience, that those mothers are holden to be lesse cruell, that kill their children assoone as they are borne, then those noursing fathers and mo thers (wheresoeuer they be)that withdraw from them who hang vpon their breasts (and vpon whose breasts againe themselves doe hang to receive the Spirituall and sincere milke of the word) livelybood and support fit for their estates. Thus it is apparent, that these things which we speake of, are of most necessary wee, and therefore, that none, either without absurditie can speake against them, or endured many a storme of gaine-saying, or opposition? A man would thinke that Civilitie , hole-

1.Sam.6.15.

Yet for all that, the learned know that certains worthy men have bene brought to votimely death for none other fault, but for seeking to reduce their Countrey-men to good order and discipline : and that in some Common-weales it was made a capitall crime, once to motion the making of a new Law for the abrogating of an old, though the same were most pernicious: And that certaine, which would be counted pillars of the State, and paternes of Vertue and Prudence, could not be brought for a long time to give way to good Letters and refined speech, but bare themselves as averse from them, as from rocks or boxes of poison: And fourthly, that hee was no babe, but a great clearke, that gaue foorth (and in writing to remaine to posteritie) in passion peraduenture, but yet he gave foorth, that hee had not seene any profit to come by any Synode, or meeting of the Clergie, but rather the contrary: And lastly, against Church-maintenance and allowance, in such sort, as the Embassadors and messengers of the great King of Kings should be furnished, it is not waknowen what a fiction or fable (so it is esteemed, and for no better by the reporter himselfe, though superstitious) was deuised: Namely, that at such time as the professours and teachers of Christianitie in the Church of Rome, then a true Church, were liberally endowed, a voyce forsooth was heard from heanen, saying; Now is poison powred down into the Church, &c. Thus not only as oft as we speake, as one saith, but also as oft as we do any thing of note or consequence, we subject our selves to every ones censure, and happy is he that is least tossed ypon tongues; for vtterly to escape the snatch of them it is impossible. If any man conceit, that this is the lot and portion of the meaner sort onely, and that Princes are princledged by their high estate, he is deceived. As the sword denoureth aswell one as the other as it is in Samuel; nay as the great Commander charged his souldiers in a certaine battell, to strike at no part of the enemie. but at the face; And as the King of Syria commanded his chiefe Captaines to fight neither with small nor great, save onely against the King of Israel: so it is too true, that Envie striketh most spitefully at the fairest, and at the chiefest. David was a worthy Prince, and no man to be compared to him for his first deedes, and yet for as worthy an acte as ever he did (even for bringing backe the Arke of God in solemuitie) he was scorned and scoffed at by his owne wife. Solamon was greater then Dauid.

though not in vertue, yet in power: and by his power and wisdome he built a Temple to the LORD. such a one as was the glory of the land of Israel, and the wonder of the whole world. But was that his magnificence liked of by all? We doubt of it. Otherwise, why doe they lay it in his sonnes dish, and call vnto him for || easing of the burden, Make, say they, the grienous servitude of thy father, and bis sore yoke, lighter. Belike he had charged them with some leuies, and troubled them with some cariages; Hereupon they raise up a tragedie, and wish in their heart the Temple had never bene built. So hard a thing it is to please all, even when we please God best, and doe seeke to approve our selves to every ones conscience.

If wee will descend to later times, wee shall finde many the like examples of such kind, or rather more to this purpose, His Maiestie that now reigneth (and long, and long may he reigne, and his off-singular wisedome given vinto him by God, and the rare learning and experience that he hath attai-

Religion, and to the opening and clearing of the word of God) the same setteth himselfe vpon a stage to be glouted upon by cuery cuil eye, yea, he casteth himselfe headlong upon pikes, to be gored by cue-ry sharpe tongue. For he that medleth with mens Religion in any part, medleth with their custome, not abide to heare of altering. Notwithstanding his Royall heart was not daunted or discouraged for that the course which he intended made much for the glory of God, & the building up of his Church, he would not suffer it to be broken off for whatsoeuer speaches or practises. It doth certainely belong vnto Kings, yes, it doth specially belong vnto them, to have care of Religion, yes, to know it aright, yea, to professe it zealously, yea to promote it to the vttermost of their power. This is their glory before all nations which meane well, and this will bring vnto them a farre most excellent weight of glory in the day of the Lord Iesus. For the Scripture saith not in vaine, Them that honor me, I will honor, nor more profitable to posteritie, for conseruing the record of times in true supputation : then when Pintare. he corrected the Calender, and ordered the yeere according to the course of the Sunne: and yet this was imputed to him for naneltie, and arrogancie, and procured to him great obloquie. So the first Christened Emperour (at the leastwise that openly professed the faith himselfe, and allowed others to doe the like) for strengthening the Empire at his great charges, and prouiding for the Church, as he did, got for his labour the name Pupillus, as who would say, a wastefull Prince, that had neede of a Guardian, or overseer. So the best Christened Emperour, for the love that he bare vnto peace, there-

If we be ignorant, they will instruct vs; if out of the way, they will bring vs home; if out of order, they will reforme vs, if in heatines, comfort vs; if dull, quicken vs; if colde, inflame vs. Tolle, lege; Tolle, lege, Take vp and read, take vp and read the Scriptures, (for vnto them was the direction) it was said vnto S. Augustine by a supernaturall voyce. Whatsoevar is in the Scriptures, beleeve me, saith the same S. Augustine, is high and divine; there is verily trueth, and a doctrine most fit for the refreshing and renewing of mens mindes, and truely so tempered, that was ued from it must needs be muddie. This moued S. Hierome a most learned father, and the best linguist without controversie, of his age, or of any that went before him, to undertake the translating of the Old Testament, out of the very fountaines themselves; which hee performed with that euidence of great learning, indgement, industrie and faithfulnes, that he hath for ever bound the Church vnto him, in a debt of speciall remembrance and thankefulnesse.

Now though the Church were thus furnished with Greeke and Latine Translations, even before The translathe faith of CHRIST was generally embraced in the Empire: (for the learned know that even in S. Springer in Hieroms time, the Consul of Rome and his wife were both Ethnicks, and about the same time the greator the valgation test part of the Senate also) yet for all that the godly-learned were not content to have the Scriptures in the Language which themselves vnderstood, Greeke and Latine, (as the good Lepers were not content to fare well themselves, but acquainted their neighbours with the store that God had sent, that they also might prouide for themselves) but also for the behoofe and edifying of the valearned which hungred and thirsted after Righteousnesse, and had soules to be saued as well as they, they pronided Translations into the vulgar for their Countreymen, insomuch that most nations under heauen did shortly after their connersion, heare CHRIST speaking vnto them in their mother tongue, not by the voyce of their Minister onely but also by the written word translated. If any doubt hereof, he may be satisfied by examples enough, if enough wil serue the turne. First S. Hierome saith, Multarum gentiù linguis Scriptura aniè translata docet falsa esse quz addita sunt &c. i. The Scripture being translated before in the languages of many Nations, dath thew that those things that were added (by Lucian or Hesychias) are false. So S. Hieraine in that place. The same Hierome elsewhere affirmeth that he, the time was, had set forth the translation of the Seventy, sur lingua bominibus.i. for his countreymen of Dalmatia. Which words not only Erasmus doth understand to purport, that S. Hierome translated the Scripture into the Dalmatian tongue, but also Sixtus Senensis, and Alphonsus à Castro (that we speake of no more) men not to be excepted against by them of Rome, doe ingenuously confesse as much. So, S. Chrysostome that lived in S. Hieromes time, giveth evidence with him: The doctrine of S. Ichn (saith he) did not in such sort (as the Philosophers did) vanish away: but the Syrians, Egyptians, Indians, Persians. Ethiopians, and infinite other nations being barbarous people, translated it into their (mother) tongue, and have learned to be (true) Philosophers, he meaneth Christians. To this may be added Theodorit, as next vnto him, both for autiquitie, and for learning. His words be these, Every Countrey that is under the Sunne, is full of these wordes (of the Apostles and Prophets) and the Hebrew tongue (he meaneth the Scriptures in the Hebrew tongue) is turned not onely into the Language of the Grecians, but also of the Romanes, and Expetians, and Persians, and Indians, and Armenians, and Scytbians, and Sauromatians, and briefly into all the Languages that any Nation useth. So he. In like maner, Vipilas is reported by Paulus Diaconus and Isidor (and before them by Sazomen) to have translated the Scriptures into the Gothicke tongue: loba Bishop of Sinil by Vasseus, to have turned them into Arabicke, about the yeere of our Lord 717: Beda by Cistertiensis, to have turned a great part of them into Saxon: Efnard by Trithemius, to have abridged the French Psalter, as Beda had done the Hebrew, about the yeere 800: King Alured by the said Cistertienus, to have turned the Psalter into Saxon: Methodius by Aventinus (printed at Ingolstad) to have turned the Scriptures into || Sclauonian : Valdo, Bishop of Frising by Beatus Rhenanus , to have caused about that time, the Gospels to be translated into Dutch-rithme, yet extant in the Library of Corbinian : Valdus, by divers to have turned them himselfe, or to have gotten them turned into French, about the yeese 1160: Charles the 5. of that name, surnamed The wise, to have caused them to be turned into French, about 200, yeeres after Valdus his time, of which translation there be many copies yet extant, as witnesseth Beroaldus. Much about that time, even in our King Richard the seconds dayes, lobn Treuisa translated them into English, and many English Bibles in written hand are yet to be seene with diners, translated as it is very probable, in that age. So the Syrian translation of the New Testament is in most learned mens Libraries, of Widminstadius his setting forth, and the Psalter in Arabicke is with many, of Augustinus Nebiensis setting foorth. So Pastel affirmeth, that in his trauaile he saw the Gospels in the Ethiopian tongue; And Ambrose Thesius alleageth the Psalter of the Indians, which he testifieth to have bene set forth by Potken in Syrian characters. So that, to have the Scriptures in the mother-tongue is not a quaint conceit lately taken vp, either by the Lord Cromwell in England, or by the Lord Radevil in Polonie, or by the Lord Vngnadius in the Emperours dominion, but hath bene thought vpon, and put in practise of old, even from the first times of the connersion of any Nation; no doubt, because it was esteemed most profitable, to cause faith to grow in mens hearts the sooner, and in make them to be able to say with the words of the Psalme, As we have beard, so we have seeme.

Now the Church of Rome would seeme at the length to beere a motherly affection towards her children, and to allow them the Scriptures in their mother tongue: but indeed it is a gift, not deseruing to be called a gift, an viprofitable gift: they must first get a Licence in writing before they may saries, that the use them, and to get that, they must approve themselves to their Confessor, that is, to be such as are, if not frezen in the dregs, yet sowred with the leaven of their superstition. Howbeit, it seemed too much to Clement the 8. that there should be any Licence granted to have them in the vulgar tongue. and therefore he ouerruleth and frustrateth the grant of Pins the fourth. So much are they afraid of the light of the Scripture, (Lucifuga Scripturarum, as Tertullian speaketh) that they will not trust the people with it, no not as it is set foorth by their owne sworne meo, no not with the Licence of their owne Bishops and Inquisitors. Yea, so vn willing they are to communicate the Scriptures to the peoples understanding in any sort, that they are not ashamed to confesse, that wee forced them to translate it into English against their wills. This seemeth to argue a bad cause, or a bad conscience, or both. Sure we are, that it is not he that hath good gold, that is afraid to bring it to the touch-stone, but he that bath the counterfeit; neither is it the true man that shunneth the light, but the malefactour, lest his deedes should be reproved: neither is it the plaine dealing Merchant that is viwilling loan 3.20. to have the waights, or the increyard brought in place, but he that vseth deceit. But we will let them alone for this fault, and returne to translation.

The speaches and reasons, both of our brethren. and of our Adgzinst this worke.

Many mens mouths have bene open a good while (and yet are not stopped) with speeches about the Translation so long in hand, or rather perusals of Translations made before: and aske what may be the reason, what the necessitie of the employment: Hath the Church benc deceived, say they, all this while? Hath her sweet bread bene mingled with leaven, her silver with drosse, her wine with water, her milke with lime? (Lacte grpsum male miscetur, saith S. Ireney,) We hoped that we had bene in S. Iren. 1 like the right way, that we had had the Oracles of God deliuered vinto vs, and that though all the world had cause to be offended and to complaine, yet that we had none. Hath the nurse holden out the breast, and nothing but winde in it? Hath the bread bene deliuered by the fathers of the Churchand the same proved to be lapidosus, as Senera speaketh? What is it to handle the word of God decentfully, if this be not? Thus certaine brethren. Also the aduersaries of Iudab and Hierusalem, like Sanballat in Nebemiah, mocke, as we heare, both at the worke and workemen, saying; What doe these weak: lewes, &c. will they make the stanes whole againe out of the beapes of dust which are burnt? although they build, yet if a fexe goe up, be shall even breake downe their stony wall. Was their Translation good before? Why doe they now mend it? Was it not good? Why then was it obtruded to the people? Yea, why did the Catholicks (meaning Popish Romanists) alwayes goe in icopardie, for refusing to goe to heare it? Nay, if it must be translated into English, Catholicks are fittest to doe it. They have learning, and they know when a thing is well, they can manum de tabulá. Wee will answere them both briefly: and the former, being brethren, thus, with S. Hierame, Damnamus veteres? Minime, sea post priorum studic in domo Domini quod possumus laboramus. That is, Doe we condemue the ancient? In no case: but after the endenours of them that were before vs, wee take the best paines we can in the house of God. As if bee said, Being prouoked by the example of the learned that lived before my time, I have thought it my duetie, to assay whether my talent in the knowledge of the tongues, may be profitable in any measure to Goes Church, lest I should seeme to have laboured in them in vaine, and lest I should be thought to glory in men, (although ancient,) about that which was in them. Thus S. Hierone may be thought to speake.

A satisfaction to our brethren.

And to the same effect say wee, that we are so farre off from condemning any of their labours that traueiled before vs in this kinde, either in this land or beyond sea, either in King Henries time, or King Edwards (if there were any translation, or correction of a translation in his time) or Queene Elizabeths of ener-renoumed memorie, that we acknowledge them to have beene raised up of God, for the building and furnishing of his Church, and that they deserve to be had of vs and of posteritie in enerlasting remembrance. The Indgement of Aristotle is worthy and well knowen: If Timotheus bad not bene, we bad not bad much sweet musicke; but if Phrynis (Timotheus his master) bad not beene, wer bad not bad Timotheus. Therefore blessed be they, and most honoured be their name, that breake the yee, and glueth onset your that which helpeth forward to the sauing of soules. Now what can bee more anaileable thereto, then to deliner Gods booke vnto Gods people in a tongue which they vnderstand? Since of an hidden treasure, and of a fountaine that is sealed, there is no profit, as Ptolamee 5. Epipean low Philadelph wrote to the Radbins or masters of the lewes, as witnesseth Epiphanius: and as S. Augusline saith; A man had rather be with his dog then with a stranger (whose tongue is strange vnto him.) Yet for all that, as nothing is begun and perfited at the same time, and the later thoughts are thought to the conbe the wiser: so, if we building yoon their foundation that went before vs, and being holpen by their labours, doe endeuour to make that better which they left so good; no man, we are sure, hath cause to mislike vs; they, we perswade our selves, if they were alive, would thanke vs. The vintage of Abieger, that strake the stroake: yet the gleaning of grapes of Epbrain was not to be despised. ted the Bible as carefully, and as skilfully as he could; and yet he thought good to goe ouer it againe, and then it got the credit with the lewes, to be called were depiBetor, that is, accuratly done, as Saint Hierame witnesseth. How many bookes of profane learning have bene gone over againe and againe, by the same translators, by others? Of one and the same booke of Aristotles Ethikes, there are extant not so few as sixe or seven severall translations. Now if this cost may bee bestowed voon the goord. which affordeth vs a little shade, and which to day flourisheth, but to morrow is cut downe; what may we bestow, nay what ought we not to bestow vpou the Vine, the fruite wherenf maketh glad the conscience of man, and the stemme whereof abideth for ever? And this is the word of God, which we translate. What is the chaffe to the wheat, saith the Lord? Tanti vitreum, quanti verum margaritum (saith Tertallian,) if a toy of glasse be of that rekoning with vs., how ought wee to value the true pearle? Therefore let no mans eye be euill, because his Maiesties is good; neither let any be grieued, that wee have a Prince that seeketh the increase of the spiritual; wealth of Israel (let Sanballuls and Tobiahs doe so, which therefore doe beare their just reproofe) but let vs rather blesse God from the ground of our heart, for working this religious care in him, to have the translations of the Bible maturely considered of and examined. For by this meanes it commeth to passe, that whatsoener is sound alreadie (and all is sound for substance, in one or other of our editions, and the worst of ours farre better then their autentike vulgar) the same will shine as gold more brightly, being rubbed and polished; also, if any thing be halting, or superfluous, or not so agreeable to the original, the same may bee corrected, and the trueth set in place. And what can the King command to bee done, that will bring him more true hortour their this? and wherein chuld they that have beene set a worke, approue their duetie to the King, yea their obedience to God, and love to his Saints more, then by yeelding their service, and all that is within them, for the furnishing of the worke? But besides all this, they were the principall motives of it, and therefore ought least to quarrell it: for the very Historicall trueth is, that vpou the importunate petitions of the Puritanes, at his Maiesties comming to this Crowne, the Conference at Hampton Court having bene appointed for hearing their complaints: when by force of reason they were put from all other grounds, they had recourse at the last, to this shift, that they could not with good conscience subscribe to the Communion booke, since it maintained the Bible as it was there translated, which was as they said, a most corrupted translation. And although this was indged to be but a very poore and emptie shift; yet euen hereupon did his Maiestie beginne to bethinke him selfe of the good that might ensue by a new translation, and presently after gaue order for this Translation which is now presented vato thee. Thus much to satisfie our scrupulous Brethren.

Now to the later we answere; that wee doe not deny, may wee affirme and abow, that the very An answere to meanest translation of the Bible in English, set foorth by men of our profession (for wee have seene the imputation none of theirs of the while Bible as yet)containeth the word of God, nay, is the word of God. As | uersaries. the Kings Speech which hee vitered in Parliament, being translated into French, Dutch, Italian and Latine, is still the Kings Speech, though it be not interpreted by every Translator with the like grace. nar peraduenture so fitty for phrase, nor so expresly for sence, enery where. For it is confessed, that things are to take their denomination of the greater part; and a naturall man could say, Verum vbi multa nitent in carmine, non ego paucis offendor maculis, &c. A man may be counted a vertuous man . though hee have made many slips in his life, (els, there were none vertunus, for in many things we of fend all) also a comely man and louely, though hee have some warts upon his hand, yea, not onely freakles vpon his face, but also skarres. No cause therefore why the word translated should bee denied to be the word, or forbidden to be current, notwithstanding that some imperfections and blemishes may be noted in the setting foorth of it. For what ever was perfect under the Sunne, where Apostles or Apostolike men, that is, men indued with an extraordinary measure of Gods spirit, and priniledged with the priniledge of infallibilitie, had not their band? The Rumanistes therefore in refusing to heare, and daring to burne the Word translated, did an lesse then despite the spirit of grace, from whom originally it proceeded, and whose sense and meaning, as well as mans weakenesse would enable, it did expresse. Indge by an example or two. Pietareb writeth, that after that Rome had beene hurnt by the Galles, they fell soone to huilde it againe: but doing it in haste, they did not cast the streets, nor proportion the houses in such comely fishion, 28 had bene most sightly and couuenient; was Catiline therefore an honest man, or a good Patriot, that sought to bring it to a combustion? or Ners a good Prince, that did indeed set it on fire? So, by the story of Egrals, and the prophesic of Haggar it may be gathered, that the Temple built by Zerubbabel after the returns from Babylon, was by no meanes to bee compared to the former built by Solomon (for they that remembred the former, wept when they considered the later) notwithstanding, might this later either have bene abhorred and forsaken by the leues, or prophaned by the Greekes! The like wee are to thinke of Translations. The translation of the Sementie dissenteth from the Originall in many places, neither doeth it come necre it, for perspicuitie, granitie, maiestie; yet which of the Apostles did condemne

it? Condemne it? Nay, they used it, (as it is apparent, and as Saint Hierome and most learned men doe confesse) which they would not have done, nor by their example of vsing it, so grace and commend it to the Church, if it had bene virworthy the appellation and name of the word of God. And whereas they vige for their second defence of their vilifying and abusing of the English Bibles or some pieces thereof, which they meete with, for that heretikes (forsooth) were the Authours of the translations, (heretikes they call vs by the same right that they call themselves Catholikes, both being wrong) wee marueile what diminitie taught them so. Wee are sure Tertullian was of another minde: Ex personis probamus fidem, an ex fide personas? Doe we trie mens faith by their persons? we should trie their persons by their faith. Also S. Augustine was of an other minde; for he lighting vpon certaine rules made by Trebonius a Donotist, for the better understanding of the word, was not ashamed to make use of them, yea, to insert them into his owne booke, with giving commendation to them so farre foorth as they were worthy to be commended, as is to be seene in S. Augustines third booke De doctrina Christiana. Tu be short, Origen, and thewhole Church of God for certain hundred yeeres, were of an other minde: for they were so farre from treading under foote, (much more from burning) the Translation of Aquila a Proselite, that is, one that had turned Iew; of Symmachus, and Theodotion, both Ebionites, that is, most vile heretikes, that they loved them together with the He brew Originall, and the Translation of the Scuentie (as hath bear before signified out of Epiphanius) and set them forth openly to be considered of and perused by all. But we weary the vulearned, who need not know so much and trouble the learned, who know it already.

Yet before we end, we must answere a third canill and objection of theirs against vs. for altering and amending our Taanslations so oft; wherein truely they deale hardly, and strangely with vs. For to whom ever was it imputed for a fault (by such as were wise) to goe ouer that which hee had done. and to amend it where he saw cause? Saint Augustine was not afraide to exhort S. Hicrome to a Palinodia or recautation; the same S. Augustine was not ashamed to retractate, we might say repoke, many things that had passed him, and doth eueu glory that he seeth his infirmities. If we will be sonnes Fides interdus of the Trueth, we must consider what it speaketh, and trample upon our owne credit, yea, and upon other mens too, if either be any way an hinderance to it. This to the cause: then to the persons we say, that of all men they ought to bee most silent in this case. For what varieties have they, and what alterations have they made, not onely of their Service bookes, Portesses and Breviaries, but also of their Latine Translation? The Service booke supposed to be made by S. Ambrose (Officium Ambro sianum) was a great while in speciall vse and request: but Pope Hadrian calling a Councill with the ayde of Charles the Emperour, abolished it, yea, hurnt it, and commanded the Service-booke of Saint Gregorie vniuersally to be vsed. Well, Officium Gregorianum gets by this meanes to be in credit, but doeth it continue without change or altering? No, the very Romane Service was of two fashions, the New fashion, and the Old, (the one vsed in one Church, the other in another) as is to bee seene in Pamelius a Romanist, his Preface, before Micrologus. The same Pamelius reporteth out of Radulphus de Riuo, that about the yeere of our Lord, 1277. Pope Nicelas the third removed out of the Churches of Rome, the more ancient bookes (of Seruice) and brought into vse the Missals of the Friers Minorites, and commaunded them to bee observed there; insomuch that about an hundred veeres after, when the abone named Radulphus happened to be at Rome, he found all the bookes to be new, (of the new stampe.) Neither was there this chopping and changing in the more anciem times onely, but also of late: Pius Quintus himselfe confesseth, that every Bishopricke almost had a peculiar kind of sernice, most valike to that which others had: which around him to abolish all other Breujaries, though neuer so ancient, and priviledged and published by Bishops in their Dioces. ses, and to establish and ratifie that onely which was of his owne setting foorth, in the yeere 1766. Now, when the father of their Church, who gladly would heale the soure of the daughter of his people softly and sleightly, and make the best of it, findeth so great fault with them for their oddes and iarring; we hope the children have no great cause to vaunt of their vniformitie. But the difference that appeareth betweene our Translations, and our often correcting of them, is the thing that wee are specially charged with; let vs see therefore whether they themselves bee without fault this way, (if it be to be counted a fault, to correct) and whether they bee fit men to throw stones at vs : O lan- House dem major purcas insane minori: they that are lesse sound themselves, ought not to object jufirmities to others. If we should tell them that Valla, Stapulensis, Erasmus, and Vines found fault with their vulgar Translation, and consequently wished the same to be mended, or a new one to be made, they would answere peraduenture, that we produced their enemies for witnesses against them; albeit, they were in no other sort enemies, then as S. Paul was to the Galatians, for telling them the trueth: and it were Galatians. to be wished, that they had dared to tell it them plainlier and oftner. But what will they say to this, that Pope Leo the tenth allowed Erasmus Translation of the New Testament, so much different from the vulgar, by his Apostolike Letter & Bull; that the same Leo exhorted Pagnin to translate the whole

Bible, and bare whatsoener charges was necessary for the worke? Surely, as the Apostle reasoneth to the Hebrewes, that if the former Law and Testament had bene sufficient there had beene no need of the latter: so we may say, that if the olde vulgar had bene at all points allowable, to small purpose had labour and charges bene undergone, about framing of a new. If they say, it was one Popes prinate opinion, and that he consulted nuely himselfe; then wee are able to goe further with them, and to a nerre, that more of their chiefe men of all sorts, even their owne Trent-champions Paina & Vega, and their owne Inquisitots, Hieronymus ab Oleastro, and their own Bishop Isidorut Clarius, and their owne Cardinall Thomas à Vio Caietan, doe either make new Translations themselves, or follow new ones of other mens making, or note the vulgar interpretor for halting; none of them feare to dissent from him, nor yet to except against him. And call they this an uniforme tenour of text and indgement a bout the text, so many of their Worthies disclaiming the now received conceit? Nay, we wil yet come neerer the quicke: doth not their Parit-edition differ from the Louding, and Hentenius his from them both, and yet all of them allowed by authoritie? Nay, doth not Sixtus Quintus confesse, that certaine Catholikes (he meaneth certaine of his owne side) were in such an humor of translating the Scriptures into Latine, that Satan taking occasion by them, though they thought of no such matter, did strive what he could, out of so vaccertaine and manifold a varietie of Translations, so to mingle all things, that nothing might seeme to be left certaine and firme in them &c? Nay further, did not the same Sixtus ordaine by an inviolable decree, and that with the counsell and consent of his Cardinals. that the Latine edition of the olde and new Testament, which the Councill of Treat would have to be authenticke, is the same without controuersie which he then set forth, being diligently corrected and printed in the Printing-house of Vatican ? Thus Sixtus in his Preface before his Bible. And ver Clement the eight his immediate successons, publisheth another edition of the Bible, containing in it infinite differences from that of Sixtus, (and many of them waightie and material) and yet this must be authentike by all meanes. What is to have the faith of our glorious Lord IESVS CHRIST with Yea and Nay, if this be not? Againe, what is sweet harmonic and consent, if this be? Therfore as Demaratus of Corinth aduised a great King, before he talked of the dissentions among the Grecians, to compose his domesticke broiles (for at that time his Queene and his sonne and heire were at deadly fuide with him) so all the while that our adversaries doe make so many and so various editions themselves. and doe large so much about the worth and authoritie of them, they can with no show of equitie challenge vs for changing and correcting.

But it is high time to leave them, and to shew in briefe what wee proposed to our seines, and what The ourses course we held in this our perusall and survey of the Bible. Truly (good Christian Reader) wee neuer thought from the beginning, that we should neede to make a new Translation, nor yet to make their our of a bad one a good one, (for then the imputation of Sixtus had bene true in some sort, that our people had bene fed with gall of Dragons in stead of wine, with whey in stead of milke:) but to make a good one better, or out of many good ones, one principall good one, not justly to be excepted against: that hath bene our indeauour, that our marke. To that purpose there were many chosen, that were greater in other mens eyes then in their owne, and that sought the truth rather then their own praise. Againe, they came or were thought to come to the worke, not exercendi causa (as one saith) but exertilati, that is, learned, not to learne: For the chiefe overseer and ipyobicers; under his Maiestie, to whom not onely we, but also our whole Church was much bound, knew by his wisedome, which thing also Nationces taught so long agoe, that it is a preposterous order to teach first and to learne after, year that role man reportion particles to learne and practise together, is neither commendable for the workerm. nor safe for the worke. Therefore such were thought youngs could say modestly with Saint Hierome. Et Hebrzum Sermonem ex parte didicimus, & in Latino pene ab ipsis incunabulis &c. detriti sumus. Both we have learned the Hebrew tongue in part, and in the Latine wee have beens exercised almost from our verie cradle. S. Hierome maketh no mention of the Greeke tongue, wherein yet lice did excell, because hee translated not the old Testament ont of Greeke, but out of Hebrewe. And in what sort did these assemble? In the trust of their owne knowledge, or of their sharpenesse of wit, or deepenesse of judgement, as it were in an arme of flesh? At no hand. They trusted in him that hath the key of Dauid, apening and no man shutting; they prayed to the Lord the Father of our Lord, to the effect that S. Augustine did; O let thy Scriptures be my pure delight, let me not be deceived in them, neither let me deceive by them. In this confidence, and with this denotion did they assemble together; not too many lest one should trouble another; and yet many, lest many things haply might escape them. If you aske what they had before them, truely it was the Hebrew text of the Olde Testament, the Greeke of the New. These are the two golden pipes, or rather conduits, where-through the oliue branches emptie themselves into the golde. Saint Augustine calleth them precedent, or originall tongues; Saint Hierame, fountaines. The same Saint Hierame affirmeth, and Gratian hath not spared to put it into his Decree. That as the credit of the olde Bookes (, lie meaneth of the Old Testament) is to bee tryed by the Heorewe Volumes, so of the New by the Greeke longue, he meaneth by the original Greeke. If trueth be to be tried by these tongues, then whence should a Translation be made, but out of them? These tongues therefore, the Scriptures wee sayin those tongues, wee set before vs to translate, being the congues wherein God was pleased to speake to his Church by his Prophets and Apostles. Neither did we run oper the worke with that posting haste that the Septuagint did, if that be true which is reported of them, that they finished it in 72, dayes; neither were we barred or hindered from going oner it againe, having once done it, like S. Hierome, if that be true which himselfe reporteth that he could no sooner write any thing, but presently it was caught from him, and published, and he could not have leave to mend it: neither, to be short, were we the first that fell in hand with translating the Scripture into English, and consequently destitute of former helpes, as it is written of Origen, that hee was the first in a maner, that put his hand to write Commensaries upon the Scriptures, and therefore no marneile, if he onershot himselfe many times. None of these things: the worke both not bene hudled up in 72, dayes, but hath cost the workemen, as light as it seemeth, the paines of twice seven times senentie two dayes and more: matters of such weight and consequence are to bee speeded with maturitie: for in a businesse of moment a man feareth not the hlame of convenient slacknesse. Neither did wee thinke much to consult the Translators or Commentators, Chaldee, Hebrewe, Syrian, Greeke, or Latine, no nor the Spanish, French, Italian, or Dutch; neither did we disdaine to repise that which we had done, and to bring backe to the anuill that which we had hammered: but having and vsing as great helpes as were needfull, and fearing no reproch for slownesse, nor coucting praise for expedition. wee haue at the length, through the good hand of the Lord vpon vs, brought the worke to that passe that you see.

Some peraduenture would have no varietie of sences to be set in the margine lest the authoritie of the Scriptures for deciding of controuersies by that shew of uncertaintie, should some what be shaken.

But we hold their judgmet not to be so sound in this point. For though, whatsoener things are necessary are manifest, as 5. Corysostome saith, and as 5. Augustine, In these things that are plainely set downe in the Scriptures, all such matters are found that soncerne Faith, bope, and Charitie. Yet for all that it cannot be dissembled, that partly to exercise and whet our wits, partly to weane the curious from loathing of them for their every-where-plainenesse, partly also to stirre up our denotion to crane the assistance of Gods spirit by prayer, and lastly, that we might be forward to seeke and of our brethren by conference, and never acorne those that be not in all respects so complete as they should bee, being to seeke in many things our selves, it hath pleased God in his divine providence, heere and there to scatter wordes and sentences of that difficultie and doubtfulnesse, not in doctrinall points that concerne sal-uation, (for in such it hath beene vouched that the Scriptures are plaine) but in matters of lesse moment, that fearefulnesse would better beseeme vs then confidence, and if we will resolve to resolve vo on modestic with S. Augustine, (though not in this same case altogether, yet you the same ground)

Melius est dubitare de occultis, quam litigare de jucertis, it is better to make doubt of those things which are secret, then to strine about those things that are uncertaine. There be many words in the Serip-tures, which be nener found there but once, (having neither brother nor neighbour, as the Hebrews speake) so that we cannot be holpen by conference of places. Againe, there be many rare names of certaine birds, beastes and precious stanes, &c. concerning which the Hebrewesthemselves are so di-nided among themselves for judgement, that they may seeme to have defined this or that rather because they would say somthing, the because they were sure of that which they said, as S. Hierame somewhere saith of the Septragint. Now in such a case, doth not a margine do well to admonish the Reader to seeke further, and not to conclude or dogmatize vpou this or that percuptorily? For as it is a fault of incredulitie, to doubt of those things that are evident; so to determine of such things as the Spirit of

of the Scriptures: so diversitie of signification and sense in the margine, where the text is not so cleare, forbiddeth, that any varietie of readings of their vulgar edition, should be put in the margine, (which though it be not altogether the same thing to that we have in hand, yet it looketh that way) but we selves to an uniformitie of phrasing, or to an identitie of words, as some peraduenture would wish sing vs not that we had done, because they observe, that some learned men some where, have beene as exact as only vpon an they could that way. Truly, that we might not varie from the sense of that which we had translated identifie of before, if the word signified the same thing in both places (for there bee some wordes that bee not of the same sense every where) we were especially carefull, and made a conscience, according to our doctie. But, that we should expresse the same notion in the same particular word; as for example, if we translate the Hebrew or Greeke word once by Purpose, neuer to call it Intent; if one where lourneying , neuer Transiling ; if one where Thinke, neuer Suppose; if one where Paine , neuer Ache ; if one where lov, neper Gladuesse. &c. Thus to minse the matter, wee thought to saugur more of curiositie then wisedome, and that eather it would breed scorne in the Atheist, then bring profite to the godly Reader. For is the kingdome of God become words or syllables? why should wee be in bondage to them if we may be free, vsc one precisely when wee may vsc another no lesse fit, as commodimists ? A godly Father in the Primitive time showed himselfe greatly moved, that one of newfanglenes called no a Bilar on a migroups, though the difference be little or none; and another teporter h, that be was much abused for turning Cucurbita (to which reading the people had beene vsed) into Hedera. Now if this happen in better times, and vpon so small occasions, wee might justly feare hard censure, if generally wee should make verball and vinecessary changings. We might also be charged (by scoffers) with some vnequall dealing towards a great number of good English wordes. For as it is written of a certaine great Philosopher, that he should say, that those logs were happie that were made images to be worshipped; for their fellowes, as good as they, lay for blockes behinde the fire: so if wee should say, as it were, vinto certaine words, Stand up higher, have a place in the Bible alwayes, and to others of like qualitie, Get ye hence, be benished for ener, wee might be taxed peraduenture with S. Iames his words, namely, To be partiall in our selves and judges of cuill thoughts. Adde hereunto, that nicenesse in wordes was alwayes counted the next step to triffing, and so was to bee curious about names too: also that we cannot follow a better patterne for elocution then God himselfe; therefore hee vsing diuers words, in his holy writ, and indifferently for one thing in nature : we, if wee will not be supersitious, may use the same libertie in our English versions out of Hebrew & Greeke, for that copie or store that he hath given vs. Lastly, wee have on the one side appoided the sempolositie of the Puritanes. who leave the olde Ecclesiasticall words, and betake them to other, as when they put weshing for Buffisme, and Congregation in stead of Church: as also on the other side we have shunned the obscuritie of the Papists, in their Azimes, Tunike, Rational, Holocausts, Prapuce, Pasche, and a number of such like, whereof their late Translation is full, and that of purpose to darken the sence, that since they must needs translate the Bible, yet by the language thereof, it may bee kept from being understood. But we desire that the Scripture may speake like it selfe, as in the language of Canaan, that it may bee Many other things we might give thee warning of (gentle Reader) if wee had not exceeded the grace, which is able to build further then we can aske or thinke. Hee remoueth the scales from our eyes, the vaile from our hearts, opening our wits that wee may understand his word, enlarging our hearts, yea correcting our affections, that we may loue it about gold and silner, yea that we may loue it to the end. Ye are brought vnto fountaines of living water which yee digged not; doe not cast earth into them with the Philistines, neither preferre broken pits before them with the wicked lewes. Others have laboured, and you may enter into their labours; O receive not so great things in value, O despise not so great saluation! Be not like swine to treade under foote so precious things, neither yet like dogs to teare and abuse holy things. Say not to our Sanjour with the Gergetiles, Depart out of our coasts; neither yer with Essas sell your birthright for a messe of potage. If light become into the world, loue not darkenesse more then light; if foode, if clothing be offered, goe not naked, starge not your selves. Remember the advise of Nazianzene, It is a grievous thing (or dangerous) to neglect a great faire, and to seeke to make markets afterwards: also the encouragement of S. Chrysostome, It is altogether impossible , that he that is sober (and watchfull) should at any time be neglected : Lastly, the admonition and menacing of S. Augustine, They that despise Gods will inuiting them, shal feele Gods will taking vengeance of them. It is a fearefull thing to fall into the hands of the living God; but a blessed thing it is, and will bring va to questacting blessednes in the end, when God speaketh vnto vs.tn hearkou; when be setteth his word before vs, to reade it; when hee stretcheth out his hand and calleth, to answere Here am I; here we are to doe thy will, O God. The Lord worke a care and conscience in vs to know him and some him, that we may be acknowledged of him at the appearing of our Lord fesus Christ,

The Table and Kalender, expressing the order of Psalmes and Lessons to be said at Morning and Euening prayer

throughout the yeere, except certaine proper feafts, as the rules following more plainely declare.

The order how the Psalter is appointed to be read.

HePfalter shall bee read through once every Moneth. And because that some Moneths be longer then some other be, it is thought good to make them even by this meanes.

To every moneth shal be appointed (as concerning this purpose) institution dayes.

And because lanuary and March haue one day aboue the sayd number, and February, which is placed betweene them both, hath onely xxviij, dayes: February shall borrowe of either of the Moneths (of January and March) one day: and so the Pialter which shall bee read in February, must begin at the last day of lanuary, and end the first day of March.

And whereas May, Iuly, August, October, and December haue xxxj. dayes apiece: It is ordered that the Pialmes shall be read the last day of the faid Moneths, which were read the day before, so that the Pialmermay begin againe the first day of the next moneth ensuing.

Now to know what Pfalmes shall be tead every day: Looke in the Kalender the number that is appointed for the Pfalmes, and then find the fame number in this Table, and vpon that number you shall fee what Pfalmes shall be fayd at Morning and Evening prayer.

And where the Cxix. Plalme is divided into xxij. portions, and is overlong to be read at one time: it is so ordered, that at one time shall not be read above foure or five of the laid portions, as you shall perceive to be noted in this Table following.

And here is also to bee noted, that in this Table, and in all other parts of the Service where any Psakus are appointed, the number is expressed after the great English Bible, which from the ix. Psalme vnto the Cxviij. Psalme, (following the division of the Hebrewes) doeth varie in numbers from the common Latine Translation.

The order how the rest of holy Scripture ( befide the Pfalter) is appointed to bee read.

Ple old Testament is appointed for the first Lessons at Morning and Euening prayer, and sthalberead through euery yeere once, except certaine Bookes and Chapters, which be least edifying, and might best be spared, and therfore are less varead.

The New Testament is appointed for the second Lessons at Moraing and Euconoming prayer, and shall be read ouer orderly every yeere thrise besides the Epistles and Gospels: except the Apocalypse, out of the which there be onely certaine Lessons appointed vpon divers proper Featles.

And to know what Leffons shall be read every day, finde the day of the Moneth in the Kalenders going before and there ye shall perceive the Bookes and Chapters that shall be read for the Lessons both at Morning and Evening prayer.

And here is to be noted, that when some there be any proper Pfalmes or Lessons appointed for the Sundayes, or for any Feast, mousable or vinnousable; then the Pfalmes and Lessons appointed in the Kalender, shall be omitted for that time.

Ye mult note also, that the Collect, Epittle, and Gospel, appointed for the Sunday, shall serve all the weeke after, except there fall some Feast that hath his proper.

When

When the yeeres of our Lord may be divided into toure euen parts, which is every fourth yeere : when the yeeres of our Lord may be disaded into foure each parts, which is every fourth yeere is then the Sunday letter leapeth, and that yeere the Plalmes and Lessons which here to the xxiij, day of February, shall be read agains the day following, except it be Sunday, which hath proper Lessons of the old Testament, appointed in the Table seriong to that purpose.

Also, where some the beginning of any Lesson, Epitle, or Gospel is not expressed, there yee must begin at the beginning of the Chapter.

And where some is not expressed how faire shall be read, there shall you reade to the ende of the Irem, to oft as the first Chapter of Saint Manhew is read either for Lesson or Gospel, ye shall begin the fame of Aou the hirth of Jesus Chass on this wife, at., And the third Chapter of S. Lukes Gospel, shalbe read vino, Being as was supposed, the some of Joseph, at.

CHAP. XIIII.

The people murmure at the newes. 6 Ioshua and Caleb labour to stil them. 11 God threatneth them. 13 Moses perswadeth God and obtaineth pardon. 26 The murmurers are depriued of entring into the land. 36 The men who raised the cuill report, die by a plague. 40 The people that would inuade the land against the wil of God, are smitten.

Nd all the Congregation lifted vp their voyce and cried; and the people wept that night.

2 And all the children of Israel murmured against Moses, and against Aaron: and the whole Congregation said vnto them, Would God that we had died in the land of Egypt, or would God we had died in this wildernesse.

3 And wherefore hath the LORD brought vs voto this land, to fall hy the sword, that our wines, and our children should be a pray? were it not better for vs to returne into Egypt?

4 And they saide one to another, Let vs make a captaine, and let vs returne into Egypt.

5 Then Moses and Aaron fell on their faces before all the assembly of the Congregation of the children of Israel. 6 ¶ And Ioshuz the sonne of Nun. and Caleb the sonne of Iephuppeh,

8 If the Loap delight in vs. then he will bring vs into this land, and give it vs, a land which floweth with milke and hony.

9 Onely rebell not yee against the LORD, neither feare yee the people of the land, for they are bread for vs their + defence is departed from them, t Hebr. shaand the LORD is with vs: feare them not.

10 But all the Congregation bade stone them with stones; and the glory of the Long appeared in the Tabernacle of the Congregation, before all the children of Israel.

11 ¶ And the LORD said vnto Moses, How long will this people prouoke me? and how long will it bee, yer they beleeue me, for all the signes which I have shewed among them?

12 I will smite them with the pestilence, and disinherite them, and will make of thee a greater nation, and mightier then they.

18 ¶ And * Moses said vnto the Exod. 22. Loro, Then the Egyptians shall heare it, (for thou broughtest vp this people in thy might from among them: \

The Canaanites are afraid. 2 Ioshus renueth Circumcision. 10 The Passeouer is kept at Gilgal. 12 Manna ceaseth. 13 An Angel appeareth to Ioshua.

Nd it came to passe when all the Kings of the Amorites which were on the side of Iordan Westward, and all the Kings of the 5 Now all the people that came out, were circumcised, but all the people that were borne in the wildernesse by the way, as they came foorth out of Egypt, them they had not circumcised.

Iericho is shut vp. 2 God instructeth Ioshua how to besiege it. 12 The citie is compassed. 17 It must be accursed. 20 The walles fall downe. 22 Rahab is saued. 26 The builder of Iericho is cursed.

Ow Iericho + was strait-ly shut vp, because of the children of Isrsel : none went out, & none came in.

2 And the LORD

6 ¶ And Ioshua the sonne of Nun called the Priests, and said vnto them Take vp the Arke of the Couenant, and let seuen Priests beare seuen trumpets of rammes-hornes, before the Arke of the Long.

7 And he said vnto the people, Passe on, and compasse the city, and let him that is armed passe on before the Arke of the Long.

8 ¶ And it came to passe when Ioshua had spoken vnto the people, that the seuen Priestes bearing the seuen trumpets of rammes hornes, passed on before the LORD, and blew with the 11 So the Arke of the Load compassed the citie, going about it once: and they came into the campe, and lodged in the campe.

12 ¶ And Ioshus rose earely in the morning, and the Priests tooke vp the Arke of the Loun.

13 And seuen Priests bearing seuen trumpets of rammes homes before the Arke of the LORD, went on continually, and blew with the trumpets : and the armed men went before them, but the rereward came after the Arke of the LORD, the Priests going on and blowing with the trumpets.

14 And the second day they compassed the citie once, and returned into the campe : so they did sixe dayes.

15 And it came to passe on the seuenth day, that they rose early about the dawning of the day, and compassed the citie after the same maner, seuen times : only on that day they compassed the citie seuen times.

16 ¶ And it came to passe at the end of three dayes, after they had made at league with them, that they heard that they were their neighbours, and that they dwelt among them.

17 And the children of Israel journeved, and came vnto their cities on the third day : now their cities were Gibeon, and Chephirah, and Beeroth, and Kiriath - iearim.

18 And the children of Israel smote them not, because the Princes of the Congregation had sworne vnto them by the LORD God of Israel: And all the Congregation murmured against the Princes.

19 But all the Princes said vnto all the Congregation, We have sworne vnto them by the LORD God of Israel: now therefore we may not touch them.

20 This we will doe to them; wee will even let them live, lest wrath be vpon vs. because of the oath which wee sware vnto them.

21 And the Princes said vnto them. Let them live, (but let them bee hewers of wood, and drawers of water, vnto all the Congregation, ) as the Princes had * promised them.

22 ¶ And Ioshua called for them, and he spake vnto them, saying, Wherefore haue ye beguiled vs, saying, We are very farre from you? when ye dwell among vs.

23 Now therefore ye are cursed, and t Hebr. not be cut of from you. there shall † none of you bee freed from being bondmen, and hewers of wood, and drawers of water, for the house of mv God.

24 And they answered Ioshua, and said, Because it was certainely told thy seruants, how that the LORD thy God * commanded his seruant Moses to give you all the land, and to destroy all the inhabitants of the land from before you, therefore we were sore afraid of our lines because of you, and haue done this thing.

25 And now behold, we are in thine hand : as it seemeth good and right vnto thee to doe vnto vs. doe.

26 And so did he vnto them, and delivered them out of the hand of the children of Israel, that they slew them not.

27 And Ioshua made them that day, hewers of wood, and drawers of water for the Congregation, and for the Altar of the LORD, euen vnto this day, in the place which he should choose.

3 Wherefore Adoni-sedek King of Ierusalem, sent vnto Hoham King of Hebron, and vnto Piram, king of Iarmuth, and vnto Iaphia king of Lachish, and vnto Debir king of Eglon, saying,

4 Come vp vnto me, and helpe me, that we may smite Gibeon : for it hath made peace with Joshua, and with the children of Israel.

5 Therefore the fine Kings of the Amorites, the king of Ierusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of larmuth. the king of Lachish, the king of Eglon, gathered themselues together, and went vp, they, and all their hostes, and encamped before Gibeon, and made warre against it.

11 And it came to passe as they fled from before Israel, and were in the going downe to Bethoron, that the Lond cast downe great stones from heauen vpon them, vnto Azekah, and they died: they were moe which died with hailestones, then they whome the children of Israel slew with the sword.

14 And there was no day like that, before it, or after it, that the LORD hearkened vnto the voyce of a man : for the Lord fought for Israel.

15 ¶ And Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, vnto the campe to Gilgal.

16 But these five kings fled, and hid themselues in a caue at Makkedah.

19 And stay you not, but pursue after Hebeutof your enemies, and + smite the hindmost of them, suffer them not to enter into their cities: for the Lord your God hath deliuered them into your hand.

20 And it came to passe when Ioshua and the children of Israel had made an end of slaying them with a very great slaughter, till they were consumed, that the rest which remained of them, entred into fenced cities.

24 And it came to passe when they brought out those kings vnto Ioshua. that Ioshua called for all the men of Israel, and saide vnto the captaines of the men of war which went with bim, Come neere, put your feete vpon the neckes of these kings. And they came neere, and put their feet vpon the necks of them.

25 And Ioshua said vnto them, Feare not, nor be dismaid, bee strong, and of good courage : for thus shall the Loan doe to all your enemies against whom ve fight.

26 And afterward Ioshua smote them, and slew them, and hanged them on fiue trees: and they were hanging vpon the trees vntill the euening.

29 Then Ioshua passed from Makkedah, and all Israel with him, vnto Lihnah, and fought against Libnah.

42 And it came to passe on the morrow, that the people went out into the field, and they tolde Abimelech.

43 And he tooke the people, and diuided them into three companies, and laide waite in the field, and looked, and behold, the people were come forth out of the citie, and he rose vp against them, and smote them.

44 And Abimelech, and the companie that was with him, rushed forward, and stood in the entring of the gate of the citie; and the two other companies ranne vpon all the people that were in the fields, and slew them.

45 And Abimelech fought against the citie all that day, and he tooke the citie, and slewe the people that was therein, and beat downe the citie, and sowed it with salt.

Amuel also saide vnto Saul, The Lond sent Chap. t. me to annoint thee to bee king ouer his people, ouer Israel : nowe therefore hearken thou vnto the voyce of the words of the LORD.

2 Thus saith the LORD of hosts. I remember that which Amalek did to Israel, * how he laid wait for him in the * Exod. 17. way when he came vp from Egypt.

3 Now goe, and smite Amalek, and vtterly destroy all that they have, and spare them not; but slay both man and woman, infant and suckling, oxe and sheepe, camell and asse.

4 And Saul gathered the people together, and numbred them in Telaim, two hundred thousand footmen. and ten thousand men of Iudah.

5 And Saul came to a citie of Amalck, and Illaid waite in the valley.

6 ¶ And Saul saide vnto the Kenites, Goe, depart, get you downe from among the Amalekites, lest I destroy you with them : for yee shewed kindnesse to all the children of Israel when they came vp out of Egypt. So the Kenites departed from among the Amalekites.

7 And Saul smote the Amalekites from Hauilah, untill thou commest to Shur, that is ouer against Egypt.

8 And hee tooke Agag the king of the Amalekites aliue, and vtterly destroved all the people with the edge of the sword.

9 But Saul and the people spared Agag, and the best of the sheepe, and of the oxen, and of the || fatlings, and the |Or, of the lambes, and all that was good, and would not vtterly destroy them : but euery thing that was vile, and refuse, that they destroyed vtterly.

10 Then came the word of the Load vnto Samuel, saying;

11 It repenteth me that I have set vp Saul to be king : for hee is turned backe from following me, and hath not performed my commandements. And it grieued Samuel; and he cried vnto the Lord all night.

12 And when Samuel rose early to meet Saul in the morning, it was tolde Samuel, saying, Saul came to Carmel. and behold, he set him vp a place, and is Saul reproued.

18 And Samuel came to Saul, and Saul said vnto him, Blessed be thou of the Loap: I have performed the commandement of the Load.

14 And Samuel said, What meaneth then this bleating of the sheepe in mine eares, and the lowing of the oxen which I beare?

15 And Saul sayde, They have brought them from the Amalekites: for the people spared the best of the sheepe, and of the oxen, to sacrifice vnto the Loap thy God, and the rest we haue vtterly destroyed.

16 Then Samuel sayd vnto Saul, Stay, and I will tell thee what the Loan hath said to mee this night. And he said vnto him, Say on.

17 And Samuel said, When thou wast litle in thine owne sight, wast thou not made the Head of the tribes of Israel, and the LORD anointed thee King ouer Israel?

18 And the Lord sent thee on a iourney, and said, Goe, and vtterly destroy the sinners the Amalekites, and fight against them, vntill they be consumed.

19 Wherefore then didst thou not obey the voice of the LORD, but didst flie vpon the spoile, and didst euill in the sight of the Lord?

20 And Saul said vnto Samuel; Yea, I have obeyed the voice of the LORD, and haue gone the way which the LORD sent me, and haue brought Agag the king of Amalek, and haue vtterly destroyed the Amalekites.

21 But the people tooke of the spoile, sheepe and oxen, the chiefe of the things which should have bene vtterly destroyed, to sacrifice vnto the LORD thy God in Gilgal.

22 And Samuel saide, Hath the LORD as great delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices, as in obeying the voice of the LORD? Behold, *to obey, is better then sacrifice : and to hearken, then the fat of rammes.

23 For rebellion is as the sin of twitchcraft, and stubburnnesse is as iniquitie and idolatrie: because thou hast rejected the word of the LORD, he hath also rejected thee from being king.

24 ¶ And Saul said vnto Samuel, haue sinned: for I haue transgressed the Commandement of the Lord, gone about, and passed on, and gone and thy wordes; because I feared the people, and obeyed their voice.

> 25 Now therefore, I pray thee, pardon my sinne, and turne againe with me, that I may worship the Loap.

26 And Samuel said vnto Saul, I will not returne with thee : for thou hast rejected the word of the Long. and the LORD hath rejected thee from being king ouer Israel.

27 And as Samuel turned about to goe away, he laid hold vpon the skirt of his mantle, and it rent.

28 And Samuel said vnto him, The Loap hath rent the kingdome of Israel from thee this day, and hath giuen it to a neighbour of thine, that is better then thou.

29 And also the ||strength of Israel | 10r, eternitie: or, viman that he should repent.

32 Then said Samuel, Bring you hither to me Agag the king of the Amalekites; and Agag came vnto him delicately. And Agag said, Surely the bitternesse of death is past.

33 And Samuel said, * As thy sword * Exed. 17. hath made women childlesse, so shall thy mother bee childlesse among women. And Samuel hewed Agag in pieces before the LORD in Gilgal.

34 Then Samuel went to Ramah, and Saul went vp to his house to Gibeah of Saul.

35 And Samuel came no more to see Saul vatill the day of his death : neuerthelesse. Samuel mourned for Saul: and the LORD repented that he had made Saul king ouer Israel.

3 And the princes of the children of Ammon saide vnto Hanun their lord, † Thinkest thou that Dauid doeth honour thy father, that he hath sent comforters vnto thee? Hath not Dauid rather sent his seruants vnto thee, to search the citie, and to spie it out, and to ouerthrow it?

4 Wherefore Hanun tooke Dauids seruants, and shaued off the one halfe of their beards, and cut off their garments in the middle, euen to their buttocks, and sent them away.

5 When they told it vnto Dauid, he sent to meet them, because the men were greatly ashamed; and the King saide, Tarie at Iericho vntill your beards be growen, and then returne.

7 And when Dauid heard of it, he sent loab, and all the hoste of the mightie men.

8 And the children of Ammon came out, and put the battell in aray at the entring in of the gate: and the Syrians of Zoba and of Rehob, and Ishtoh, and Mascah, were by themselves in the field.

9 When loab saw that the front of the battell was against him, before and behind, he chose of all the choise men of Israel, and put them in aray against the Syrians.

10 And the rest of the people he deliuered into the hand of Abishai his brother, that he might put them in aray against the children of Ammon.

15 ¶ And when the Syrians sawe that they were smitten before Israel, they gathered themselues together.

16 And Hadarezer sent, and brought out the Syrians that were beyond the riuer, and they came to Helam, and Shobach the captaine of the hoste of Hadarezer went before them.

17 And when it was told Dauid, he gathered all Israel together, and passed ouer Iordane, and came to Helam: and the Syrians set themselues in aray against Dauid, and fought with him.

18 And the Syrians fled before Israel, and Dauid slew the men of seuen hundred charets of the Syrians, and fourtie thousand horsemen, and smote Shobach the captaine of their hoste, who died there.

39 And the soule of king Dauid || longed to goe foorth vnto Absalom ; for he was comforted concerning Amnon, seeing he was dead.

CHAP. XIIII.

I losh, suborning a widow of Tekosh, by a pa-rable to incline the Kings heart to fetch home Absalom, bringeth him to Hierusalem. 28 Absaloms beautie, haire, sand children. 28 After two yeres, Absalom by Ioab is brought into the Kings presence.

Ow Ioab the sonne of Zeruiah, perceiued that the kings heart was toward Absalom.

2 And Ioab sent to Tekoah, and fetcht thence a wise woman, and said vnto her, I pray thee, faine thy selfe to be a mourner, and put on now mourning apparel, and anoint not thy selfe with oile, but be as a woman that had a long time mourned for the dead:

8 And come to the king, and speake on this maner vnto him : so Ioab put the words in her mouth.

4 ¶ And when the woman of Tekoah spake to the king, shee fell on her face to the ground, and did obeysance. and said, +Helpe, O king.

5 And the king said vnto her, What aileth thee? And she answered, I am indeed a widow woman, and mine husband is dead.

6 And thy handmayd had two sonnes, and they two stroug together in the field, and there was + none to part them, but the one smote the other, and alew him.

7 And behold, the whole family is risen against thine handmayd, and they said, Deliuer him that smote his brother, that we may kill him, for the life of his brother whom he slew, and we will destroy the heire also: and so they shall quench my cole which is left, and shall not leave to my husband neither name

8 And the king saide vnto the woman. Goe to thine house, and I will giue charge concerning thee.

9 And the woman of Tekoah said vnto the king, My lord, O king, the iniquitie bee on mee, and on my fathers house: and the king and his throne bee guiltlesse.

10 And the king said, Whosoeuer saith ought vnto thee, bring him to mee, and he shall not touch thee any more.

11 Then said she, I pray thee, let the king remember the LORD thy God, +that thou wouldest not suffer the re- t Hebr. that uengers of blood to destroy any more, of blood doe lest they destroy my sonne. And he said, in destroy As the Loun liveth, there shall not one haire of thy sonne fall to the earth.

12 Then the woman said, Let thine handmayd, I pray thee, speake one word vnto my lord the king. And hee said. Say on.

13 And the woman said, Wherefore then hast thou thought such a thing against the people of God? For the king doeth speake this thing as one which is faulty, in that the king doeth not fetch home againe his banished.

14 For we must needs die, and are as water spilt on the ground, which cannot bee gathered vp againe : ||neither | 10r, herms doeth God huth not laken a he deuise meanes, that his banished bee touy his lefe. not expelled from him.

15 Now therefore that I am come to speake of this thing vnto my lord the king, it is because the people haue made me afraid: and thy handmayd said, I will now speake vnto the king; it may bee that the king will performe the request of his handmayd.

16 For the king wil heare, to deliuer his handmayd out of the hand of the man that would destroy mee, and my sonne together out of the inheritance of God:

And the woman answered and said, As thy soule liueth, my lord the king, none can turne to the right hand or to the left from ought that my lord the king hath spoken : for thy seruant Ioab, hee bade me, and he put all these wordes in the mouth of thine handmaid:

20 To fetch about this forme of speech hath thy seruant Ioab done this thing; and my ford is wise, according to the wisedome of an Angel of God, to know all things that are in the earth.

21 ¶ And the king said vnto Ioab, Behold now, I have done this thing goe therefore, bring the yong man Ab salom againe.

22 And Ioab fell to the ground on his face, & bowed himselfe, and +thanked the king; and Ioab said, To day thy seruant knoweth that I have found grace in thy sight, my lord O king, in that the king hath fulfilled the request of his seruant.

23 So Ioab arose, and went to Geshur, & brought Absalom to Ierusalem. 24 And the king said, Let him turne to his owne house, & let him not see my face. So Absalom returned to his owne house, and sawe not the kings face.

26 And when he polled his head, (for it was at enery yeres end that he polled it: because the haire was heavy on him, therefore he polled it) hee weighed the haire of his head at two hundred shekels after the kings weight.

27 And vnto Absalom there were borne three sonnes, and one daughter, whose name was Tamar : shee was a woman of a faire countenance.

28 ¶ So Absalom dwelt two full vecres in Ierusalem, and saw not the kings face.

29 Therefore Absalom sent for Ioab, to have sent him to the king, but hee would not come to him: and when hee sent againe the second time, hee would not come.

30 Therefore hee said vnto his ser-Heb. neere wants, See, Ioabs field is theere mine, and he hath barley there: goe, and set it on fire : and Absaloms servants set the field on fire.

Absalom, by faire speeches and courtesies, stealeth the hearts of Israel. 7 Vnder pretence of a vow he obtaineth leave to go to Hebron 10 He maketh there a great conspiracie. 13 Dauid vpon the newes fleeth from Ierusalem. 19 Ittai would not leave him. 24 Zadok and Abiathar are sent backe with the Arke. 30 David and his companie go vp mount Oliuet weeping. 31 Hecurseth Ahithophels counsel. 32 Hushai is sent backe with instructions.

5 And it was so, that when any man came nigh to him, to doe him obeisance, he put foorth his hand, and tooke him, and kissed him.

11 And with Absalom went two hundred men out of Ierusalem, that were called, and they went in their simplicitie, and they knew not any thing.

12 And Absalom sent for Ahithophel the Gilonite, Dauids counseller, from his citie, even from Giloh, while he offered sacrifices : and the conspiracie was strong, for the people encreased continually with Absalom.

13 ¶ And there came a messenger to Dauid, saying, The hearts of the men of Israel are after Absalom.

14 And Dauid said vnto all his seruants that were with him at Ierusalem, Arise, and let vs flee; for wee shall not else escape from Absalom : make speede to depart, lest hee ouertake va Heh thrust suddenly, and + bring euill voon vs. and 17 And the king went forth, and all the people after him, and taried in a place that was farre off.

18 And all his seruants passed on beside him: and all the Cherethites, and all the Pelethites, and all the Gittites, sixe hundred men, which came after him from Gath, passed on before the king. 19 Then said the king to Ittai the Gittite, Wherefore goest thou also with vs? Returne to thy place, and abide with the King : for thou art a stranger, and also an exile.

25 And the King said vnto Zadok, Cary backe the Arke of God into the citie: if I shall finde fauour in the eyes of the LORD, he wil bring me againe, and shew me both it, and his habitation.

26 But if he thus say, I have no delight in thee: beholde, here am I, let him doe to me, as seemeth good unto him.

34 But if thou returne to the citie. and say vnto Absalom. I wil be thy seruant, O king : as I have bene thy fathers seruant hitherto, so will I now also be thy seruant: then mayest thou for meel defeat the counsell of Ahithophel.

35 And hast thou not there with theel Zadok, and Abiathar the Priests? therefore it shall be, that what thing soeuer thou shalt heare out of the kings house, thou shalt tell it to Zadok and Abiathar the Priests.

36 Behold, they have there with them their two sonnes, Ahimaaz Zadoks sonne, and Iouathan Abiathars sonne: and by them ye shall send vnto me cuery thing that ye can heare.
